Scouts Need Adults To Aid Day Camp Program

A committee comprised of adult representatives of Intermediate Girl Scout and Brownie troops from the New Lenox, Mokena and Frankfort area (Tri-Kena) met on Wednesday (Jan. 17) in the home of Mrs. Melvin Spiess, New Lenox, to discuss day camp plans.

"Indian Lore" is to be the theme of the camp next summer. There are many details still to be worked out, it was said, such as location of the camp, dates to be operated, and transportation, to name a few.

Getting adult help is one of the major problems, it was stated. The committee would like to line up some volunteers now that will be willing to supervise camp activities and be responsible for small groups of girls there.

It is not necessary, a committee spokesman said, to have had previous experience in scouting to qualify for this supervisory work. Persons who will help are asked to call Mrs. James Smoot at HU 5-2171.

Members of the planning committee are: Mrs. Smoot, director; Mrs. Melvin Spiess, assistant camp director; Mrs. Stanley Corcoran, health and safety; Mrs. Howard Hull, art consultant; Mrs. Philip Heitman, business manager; Mrs. Edwin Meyers, buyer.

Also present at the meeting were Mrs. Robert Yahnke, camp committee coordinator, presenting council views, and Miss Barbara Gilby, district representative.

A junior committee made up of two representatives from each troop of scouts or Brownies will hold planning meetings too. Their ideas and suggestions will be used whenever practicable, it was said. This junior committee is to meet next Monday at 3:30 o'clock in the New Lenox Methodist church.

After luncheon was served by Mrs. Spiess the committee adjourned to the New Lenox Methodist church to attend the monthly Neighborhood meeting.

Says Club Liquor License Is A 'Must' For Bowling Center

Further discussion of the proposed bowling lanes and recreation center for New Lenox was held last week at a meeting of members of the Veterans of Foreign Wars post and the village board.

The village board has been holding up issuance of a bar license for the establishment pending (1) clarification of the status of the proposed center -- club or public house, and (2) some assurance that the other facilities proposed -- swimming pool, ball field, rifle range etc. will be built.

The board has adopted an ordinance which provides for issuance of a club bar license. This measure was passed specifically to provide a license for the recreation center. Now the board is not sure whether this type of license or a regular Class A tavern license would cover the situation.

Richard McCarthy, head of the group that is promoting the center explained that the establishment would operate as a club, under the by-laws that have been set up, and would be operated by a not for profit corporation. It is essential to the success of the enterprise he told the board that the license be granted. Without the bar license he declared, the bowling equipment firm that is to finance the bowling alleys will not put up the money. The liquor license is essential to the undertaking, it was pointed out.

Attorney August Santoro told the village board members present at last week's meeting that under its set up the organization operating the place would be a club for all practical intents and purposes and that it could not operate under a Class A license.

The question has thus resolved itself to this: The proposed recreation center must have a club liquor license to operate and if there is no club liquor license there will be no recreation center.

Under the set up outlined at the meeting last week there will be a board of directors for the not-for-profit corporation that will be made up of members of the VFW post, including all of the past commanders of said post. As of now there will be 17 members on the board, 16 men and one woman who will represent the woman's auxiliary of the New Lenox post.

According to the by-laws, it was explained by McCarthy, after the debts of the center are met the surplus earnings are to be set aside for the development of recreation facilities for the center, swimming pool, etc.

The recreation group is represented by Attorneys George Sangmeister and Santoro of the law firm Sangmeister and San-toro. Because New Lenox village attorney William Penn represented the VFW post he disqualified himself from representing the village at the meeting last week and the village was represented by Attorney Louis Bertani of the law firm of Krusemark and Bertani.

The lawyers are now looking over the by-laws and the organization of the various corporations involved. Whether the village board will act on the license question at its next meeting was not indicated.

N. L. Youth Gets $40,000 For Injuries

A New Lenox youth, Bernard Santerelli, 20, of Pine street, has been awarded $40,000 for personal injuries suffered in November, 1956, when he was a student at Lincoln-Way high school. The verdict was returned in the Will county circuit court last Thursday.

Santerelli was struck by a car as he was crossing Lincoln highway, heading for the school. The accident occurred the night of Nov. 19, 1956. The youth, then 15, had ridden out from New Lenox on a Gold Star bus to attend some function at the school.

He got off in front of the school, the bus went on across the highway. The driver of the car that hit him said he didn't see him until too late. Driver of the car was Robert Schert, of 1639 Marquette rd., Chicago, who at the time of the accident resided in a subdivision near New Lenox.

Santerelli was seriously injured and is still in a crippled condition. He was unable to complete his studies at regular class sessions but has been endeavoring to gain a high school diploma thru night classes.

A jury of five men and seven women heard the case. They found that the injured youth had been exercising reasonable care and caution at the time of the accident.

He was represented by Attorneys Thomas P. Faulkner of Joliet and Leonard W. Golan, of Chicago.

Stockholders Of Banks Hold Annual Meetings

Banks of the area have all held their annual stockholders' meetings, directors elected and officers named. All the banks report good years and all have voted dividends.

The area not only has been growing but the growth is continuing and the banks are prepared to accommodate an increase in business.

In the past year the Frankfort and New Lenox State banks have expanded their facilities and each is new in appearance as well as having additional floor space. The Mokena State bank enlarged its quarters a couple of years ago and last year opened its own parking lot to accommodate customers. The lot is at the northwest corner of Front and Mokena streets. It also assures the bank of more room on which to build when that becomes necessary. The Orland State bank built new quarters a few years ago, so designed as to meet the communities needs for several years to come.

The stockholders of the Orland Park bank met Jan. 8 and the directors Jan. 9. A 6% dividend was declared. The directors chosen were Louis M. Macauley of Worth, W. R. Schussler, Jr., Robert Davidson, George E. Gee, Harwell E. West, James W. Gee, George F. Gee and Donald O. White.

Officers named by the directors are, Mr. Macauley, president; Mr. Schussler, executive vice president; George E. Gee, cashier, Mr. West, secretary and the following assistant cashiers: George F. Gee, Eloise K. Davidson, James E. Marshall, Ronald M. Johnson, and Byron D. Murgatroyd.

The New Lenox State bank declared its dividend, 6%, Dec. 1, effective Dec. 15. Its stockholder met the morning of Jan. 11 to carry on routine business and elect directors.

The directors met in the afternoon and named the officers. Directors are: John Handorf, Jr., chairman; Ceward W. Batson, Sheldon W. Hauck, Archibald Corp, Frank Vranicar, and Ernest G. Oram, Jr. Mr. Batson was re-elected president and Mr. Hauck executive vice president, and Mr. Vranicar secretary. Mr. Corp and Mr. Oram were elected vice presidents, Dwight W. Egle, cashier, and Robert J. McCleary, assistant cashier.

The same officers were re-elected by the directors, Mr. Krusemark, president; Alvin Bruggeman, vice president; Mr. Remien, cashier, James P. Walker, assistant cashier.

The directors are: Herman Barleyworth, Arthur C. Bauch Leroy Bettenhausen, A. J. Heusner, LeRoy Mager and George Tate.

A 10% dividend was declared. Seven hundred and 80 shares of the 1,000 outstanding were represented at the meeting. At noon the stockholders were served a roast beef dinner by the Ladies circle of the Good Shepherd church.

The stockholders and directors of the Mokena State bank met Jan. 9 and a 6% dividend declared which was effective as of Dec. 20. This was an increase of 1% over last year. The directors, who also are the officers of the bank, are: Mrs. Rose McMahon, president; Roy P. Kropp, vice president; Owen C. Maue, secretary; Everett J. Cooper, cashier, and Lydia Baudry, assistant cashier.

WITH PRETTY CHEERLEADERS such as these, it would seem that the Lincoln-Way Knights could improve their record. L to R Jackie Zitter; Captain, Karyl Gregg, Cheryl Crabtree and Pam Clark.

The wheel-shaped building with four wings residential, first of its kind in the Joliet diocese, is located just east of St. Francis Academy on Joliet's West side.

Applications are still being taken, Sister Evangela said, for rooms in the retirement home. The lay resident wings includes 44 private rooms with baths, 44 private rooms without bath all bedrooms have lavatory and four suites. All are single-bed rooms now, but can be converted into doubles.

The other two wings will be used for infirm and aging Sisters of the Franciscan community.

Plan Unusual Program At Methodist Church

MRS. SHERMAN KNOX

Thirty college students from the Northern part of Illinois will be at the Orland Park Methodist Church, Wednesday, Jan. 31 at 8 p.m. The group is sponsored by the Wesley Foundation of Northern Illinois University in DeKalb, and has toured extensively in the mid-west for the past five years. The students donate their time between semesters in order to bring churches a unique worship experience.

This year the tour choir will present a number of contemporary compositions including a new anthem for brass ensemble, organ and choir; "Christian Dost Thou See Them?"

Worship is also expressed through a religious drama "The Gardner Who Was Afraid of Death," by Henri Brochet. It is a simple story involving three characters; two Roman soldiers and a gardener. The protagonist is Phocas, a gardener, whose faith is challenged by the threat of death. The play unfolds as he attempts to meet this threat. If the play causes

"Active membership is open to any member of the Republican party in the townships of the organization and associate membership is open to young men and women between the ages of 17 and 21 in the townships with an interest in the principles of the Republican party."

According to Blair considerable interest has been manifested in the organizations and he expects a rapid growth. Committeemen and supervisors have the forms which are filled out by those seeking membership.

Who Said They Wanted An Old Fashioned Winter?

Old Man Winter, who sometimes poses as a kindly, benevolent sort of character with a hearty handclasp and a cheery word for one and all, is being his own true, cussed, miserable self this season and the only thing he has had to give the public so far is snow, cold and trouble.

Until late December, weekends were more or less periods of rest and relaxation from the care and toil of the preceding work days but since then they have been one snow storm after another, with a total fall of approximately 30 inches.

Pushing and shoveling paths, or clearing walks and driveways of the dratted stuff has become a regular weekend duty and more work than most of us have bargained for.

Travel has been retarded because of the snow and highways of the area are still ice encrusted for the most part. Driving on snow packed and icy roads is a hazardous occupation but there is this comfort to be had -- motorists are more careful when the weather is bad than when it is good and as a result there have been fewer fatalities and serious injuries.

Especially dangerous is the stretch of clear pavement that suddenly gives way to ice or ice patches. Unless a driver is familiar with the road so he can slow before hitting the slick portion he can be in serious difficulty. Ice, like alcohol, doesn't mix with speed.

State, county, township and village workers have put in long, hard hours combating the unusually heavy snows and are to be congratulated on doing an excellent job in plowing out highways and streets.

In New Lenox, Frankfort and Mokena the snow has been pushed from the streets onto the parkways to parking space is available along the sides and still slow for two way traffic. Township crews cleared the streets thru Marley.

The people who have been yearning for an old fashioned winter can settle down now and enjoy this one, altho we imagine that those who can afford it have taken off for Mexico, our own south, including Florida, having had quite a winter too.

It is said that it is difficult to forecast the weather a month in advance altho 30-day forecasts are frequently quoted in newspapers and on radio and TV weather programs. The latest of these calls for heavy precipitation and low temperatures we hope it is wrong.

The forecaster is rather cagey on the temperature. He doesn't say sub-zero, just low, but if the temperature follows the present pattern the low will be quite low indeed.

We have had several days where the temperature has been 10, 11 or 12 degrees below zero so that a reading of 10 or 15 above feels like a warm day.

Cold, snow and ice is bitter weather, especially for such creatures, including man, who have to be out in it because of their work or circumstances. If they can take it there is no reason why the rest of us can't.

As for us, we are eagerly awaiting spring and summer. Cutting grass is easier than shoveling snow.

On Second Thought

By GLENN F. LOGAN

In offices and business houses where the bosses are given to sloganizing--if there is such a word--one used to encounter (and may still) a little gem that boasted "the difficult we do right away, the impossible takes a little longer."

That may not be the exact wording but the message is there and we think it would be appropriate to carve above the door of the New Lenox village hall when, and if, such a structure is erected.

The reason for such a suggestion was the recently expressed determination of authorities to enforce an ordinance which decrees that dogs and cats are not to run at large; that they must be tied up or shut up and when roaming the streets must be attached a leash not to exceed eight feet in length with the further proviso that the end of the leash not attached to the animal shall be attached to a human being.

Walking a dog on a leash is not too difficult. The dog, one might say, is thoroughly domesticated. The dog is a good friend to man and he stands for a lot of things that are done to him because he figures that's what his friend wants, or in some unexplainable way they give him friend pleasure.

Sometimes the dog remonstrates but as a rule he submits to what is in store for him in good grace. In his relations with people a dog is usually generous, tolerant and a great giver, frequently giving far more in devotion and companionship than he receives.

But a cat, now. A dog may say that as long as people adopted an ordinance curtailing his liberties he would have to put up with it. That doesn't mean he likes it but centuries of obedience to mankind has left its mark so if he has to the dog will submit.

But a cat says to blazes with such a law and means it. Cats are domesticated but have never quite accepted man. They tolerate him they make use of him but they don't really trust him.

The veneer of civilization that coats a cat is quite thin. There is a strain of wildness in any cat. A cat is independent, arrogant, selfish and extremely allergic to discipline. Give a cat a dry bed out of the cold and he is content. Oh, there is one other thing--when a cat wants to go outside and get first hand information on what's going on around the neighborhood, he expects to go.

Once in a blue moon one may see a cat on a leash but cats by and large are a fastidious lot and restraint irks them. Ever try to hold a cat after he or she had signalled they had sufficient petting and wanted down? Then you'll probably remember how sharp those claws are. Your correspondent wouldn't care to break a cat to leash and collar unless outfitted like a goalie on a professional hockey team, plus a football helmet and a fencer's mask.

What this department is curious to know is who is going to explain that ordinance to the cats? If their folks try it and fail does it mean that the police will get the job? We have always had a soft spot in our hearts for police and we would hate to see them saddled with the duty of chasing errant cats. And if they caught one, well, that would be something over and above the call of duty in our book.

About the only way they could cope with a vigorous, athletically inclined cat would be the shotgun and we can imagine that is the police of any village or city went around hiving cats with a .12 gauge the Boom? Boom? one would hear day after day on the next election day would be even louder than the Boom! of the guns themselves.

Business & Finance

By MAURICE P. ANGLAND

Some of the leading investment analysts are advising that they believe the general market has declined to a point where investors will be attracted.

Investment writers point out that earnings, dividends, interest, etc. are creating new millions of investment funds which must seek employment. Institutions, such as colleges, hospitals, etc. must keep their endowment funds productive as they have operational expenses that are paid, at least partially, from investment earnings. The same investment compulsion is found in the insurance field.

Larger numbers of individuals have been seeking investment opportunities in stocks. The large institutions which regularly report their investment holdings, show a continuing tendency to choose common stock over bonds, etc. The percentage of such funds in common stocks is now much greater than the amount invested in bonds, mortgages, etc.

Some of the well known investment analysts believe that the higher grade investment stocks are not being created as fast as the demand for such investments has increased. This is one of the explanations given for the higher price earnings ratios in the high grade group.

Investment circles have been watching the rate of average profit increase in such basic industries as autos and steel. The new wage contract in the steel industry is likely to call for a further increase in over all labor costs. This is expected whether or not there is a strike.

It is also almost certain that the administration will again exert its full influence against an off setting increase in steel products.

The rate of profit on business done in this basic industry, is downward. The wage price squeeze has been heavy. It is expected that steel buying against possible strike, will lift production at expense of later demand.

The well known investment services seem to feel that commodity prices during 1962 will not show much increase. Increases this year are being predicted at around 2 per cent.

Auto output is about 50 per cent higher than the same time a year ago and dealer inventories are reported to be about 18 per cent lower. Retail trade-department stores report greater than expected December gains - 8 per cent above 1960.

Electric utilities report weekly gains of about 10 per cent over a year ago and almost double that gain over 1959 figure.

The paper board industry has long been one of the sensitive barometers of general business. The industry reports that order backlog at year end, was 20 per cent higher than like period a year ago.

Many investors are not aware of the fact that there are a number of well known firms whose dividends are tax exempt at from 50 to 100 per cent.

There are a number of electric utilities (and non-utilities) which due to particular circumstances, are able to make all or a substantial portion of the dividends tax exempt. These tax exempt dividends would seem to be more attractive than many municipal bonds. Many of these common stocks have growth potential as well as tax exemption on a portion of their dividends.

"Fellow named Barney Rice writes a column in Mindoka County News and last week he got to wondering about how people can teach their little kids not to use cuss words and still carry on a dinner table conversation about Hell's Canyon Dam."

Herb H. Love, Shoshone (Ida.) Lincoln County Journal.

In the law, there is a vast difference between the meaning of "domicile" and "residence." It is not unusual to find that a Florida resident has his domicile in Illinois.

Technically, you are a "resident" of the state in which you are physically living, but you may have many successive residences and even several at the same time. However, the law says you have but one state of "domicile" and that is the state where you have your permanent home to which you intend ultimately to return.

It can become very important to determine what is your state of domicile, for tax and voting purposes, to determine how property should be distributed on death, and so forth. Many cases have been fought through the courts over questions of residence and domicile.

It has happened that estates have been subjected to full death taxes in several states because of confusion about the domicile of the deceased, with the result that the estates were almost completely expended in paying taxes.

Consider the case of Jack Logan, a schoolteacher. He and his wife Mary lived in Carbondale, Ill. for 15 years. When Mary died, Jack took a job teaching school in a little town in Minnesota.

He kept the family house in Carbondale and returned there in the summers and sometimes during the Christmas holidays. He used a Carbondale, Ill. address as his home address on various business papers, and often mentioned in conversation that he intended to return permanently to Carbondale when he retired. He used an Illinois absentee ballot to vote.

When Jack died, it became important to determine his state of domicile, for purposes of taxation and of distribution of his property, for he had left no will. Although during most of the year Jack was a Minnesota resident, a court would be likely to find that he had maintained his domicile in Carbondale, Ill. All the things he did to retain connections to Illinois are evidence of his intention to return permanently sometime in the future, and that generally is the test of domicile.

If you travel extensively, or work in a state other than your home state, you have a problem of domicile that can be costly to you or your heirs if the evidences of your intention are not clear.

Hints For Homeowners

By JAMES FIZZELL, ASS'T. FARM ADVISER

The heavy snows we've had this winter and the recent severe cold will affect the plants in your yard, and their growth next summer.

We have received calls about the effect of the cold on plants in this area. Were it not for the snow, and this is probably the only good thing about it, we could reasonably expect damage to newly planted shrubs, roses, and evergreens such as Japanese yews.

The snow is a very efficient mulch, and provides insulation against the severe cold. It doesn't keep the plants warm, obviously; but it does modify the drastic temperature changes which do occur. It is the alternate freezing and thawing that injures plants.

On the opposite side of the ledger, the heavy snow has reduced the beneficial effects of the cold. In case you wonder how such cold could be good, the protection afforded your plants is equally available to the garden pests which would otherwise be killed.

Also, you may find your garden a little harder to dig because the freezing and thawing that kills plants is the most beneficial of all natural soil loosening processes. So it seems that both good and bad come from even the worst of winter weather.

On your "Things To Do This Week-end" list, take a tour around your yard to see how your plants are doing. Check newly planted trees and shrubs to make sure they haven't blown loose. Be sure your trees are not suffering from sunscald which cracks the bark. If you find this, wrap the tree.

Prune off any branches broken by the snow, and shake off the snow from the others.

And, scatter some suet, peanut butter and seed for your bird neighbors. They will repay you this summer catching bugs.

To Save A Life

By ROBERT H. KENNEDY, M.D.

(When someone is struck down and badly injured in an accident, first aid, given before a doctor can get to the injured one, may save his life. Everyone should know what to do in these emergencies. The following article, prepared as a public service by the American Mutual Liability Insurance Company, tells what to do in one serious instance. It is one of a series appearing in this newspaper.)

The most important thing to remember when someone needs first aid for a broken bone is that the bone must be kept motionless.

This is done with splints and even the layman can apply an effective splint if he has the basic understanding of what to do and why he must do it.

Every broken bone is a fracture. In other words the soft parts of the body around the bone -- muscles, nerves, blood vessels -- are injured, and this injury can be as serious as the break of the bone itself.

The splint should be applied before any attempt is made to move the victim. The purpose is to keep the broken bone and the soft parts around it from being damaged further thru motion and to reduce pain and discomfort for the victim.

The splint, in the form of a stick or board, or in the case of a broken wrist a rolled newspaper from the elbow to the fingertips, should be bound tightly to the broken bone so that it cannot move.

Probably the most common break in a bone is in the wrist, resulting from a fall on the stretched hand.

How can anyone but a doctor tell when a bone is broken? Sometimes he cannot, for sure, without X-rays. But the symptoms are swelling, black and blue discoloration and simple appearance of the bone, the latter often leaving little doubt that there is a break.

Sometimes, as in the case of a broken wrist, pain is not severe. Trying to move the bone or those near it, such as the fingers in a wrist break, usually causes a lot of pain when the bone is broken.

Even if there is no assurance that a bone is broken, though, you should give first aid treatment for a break, as long as there is a chance of one. Don't move the patient until the bone is splinted, and this should be done immediately. In the case of an injured wrist, it can usually be safely assumed that there is a break if there are symptoms of swelling, black and blue coloring and a twisted or distorted appearance to the wrist. Wrist sprains are quite rare. Ability to use the hand is no guarantee that the wrist is not broken, either.

Almost any broken bone will have to be set by a doctor, with anesthesia. The purpose of first aid is to get the victim to a doctor with the injured limb saved from further damage in transit and at a minimum of pain and discomfort for the victim.

This means application of a splint right away, in the position in which the bone is found, and then getting the victim to a doctor, or a doctor to him, as quickly as possible.

Keeping your head and remembering the simple need and means of applying a splint are first and foremost. A broken bone and a fracture are exactly the same. It is almost impossible for a bone to be broken without injury to the soft parts surrounding it. The latter may be more serious than the break itself. Care must be taken.

Golf Course Features Realty Deal

A new, 18-hole golf course will be the central element of a 1,000 acre community planned by Arthur T. McIntosh and Company. The property is a naturally wooded and hilly tract located on Harlem avenue between Lincoln Highway and Sauk Trail--2 1/2 miles from the new Southwest Expressway which is now being built. The development is east of Frankfort.

According to Arthur T. McIntosh, Jr., president of the firm, the decision to include a golf course as a part of the community followed observation of the rapidly dwindling facilities for this popular sport in the Chicago area. "In building this course as an integral part of our community we are reversing the trend of the last 30 years during which a number of golf courses were sub-divided for home developments. This course will remain a permanent source of beauty and pleasure for the entire area," Mr. McIntosh said.

The course, designed by Edward Lawrence Packard, golf course architect, will be more than 6,500 yards long, with rolling fairways winding their way through the valley, crossed at intervals by a picturesque stream, and surrounded by wooded hills with their century-old oak, hickory, and maple trees. There will be a complete new clubhouse of traditional design.

Mr. Packard said, "I am thrilled with the natural beauty of this countryside -- literally an architect's dream. This will be one of Chicago's most scenic golf courses."

Work is already under way and the course will be open to the public upon completion. Shortly afterward, other phases of the development will begin.

Read II Corinthians 1:18-24
All the promises of God find their Yes in him. That is why we utter the Amen through him, to the glory of God, (II Corinthians 1:20, RSV.) My grandmother used to mark with pencil the promises of God in the Bible. Thus she nourished her soul on His sure Word.

My mother, who also loved her Bible, had a "Promise Box." This consisted of tiny rolls of stiff paper, each containing some promise from God's Word. Each morning she would take out a promise. When I visited her, I would sometimes be offered the box from which to draw a promise. I can testify from the experience of both of us how often the words we read were timely and relevant to our need.

How blessed to depend upon God's promises in the Bible which are never reversed and which never fail! Our souls need them, if we are to keep spiritually strong--just as our bodies need daily food. John Wesley once described the gospel as one great promise--as indeed it is.

PRAYER: O God, who hast made such great and precious promises to all who believe Thy Word, help us by daily trusting in Thee to prove them in our own experience. May we know that whatever may befall us, Thy promises are ever faithful, ever sure; through Christ our Lord. Amen.

THOUGHT FOR THE DAY: God's Word is ever timely, always relevant to our need, H. Cecil Pawson (England)

Report Changes In Illinois Rural And Urban Population

While Illinois' population rose more than 1.3 million from 1950 to 1960, only half of the counties gained while the other half lost inhabitants. These shifts in population have brought major problems to the institutions and agencies that serve people, not only in the areas gaining population but also in those of declining population, a University of Illinois rural sociologist reports.

C. L. Folse observes that most population gains have occurred in the northern, central and east-central counties of the state and in those counties with large cities. The counties losing population are concentrated in the southern and western areas of the state.

Folse also notes the following changes that have occurred:

The census now classifies the population as about 20 percent rural. The remainder is urban, in places of 2,500 or more.

The excess of births over deaths accounted for about 90 percent of the Illinois population gain from 1950 to 1960. About 10 percent was due to net migration into the state.

The 10 percent net gain through migration was due entirely to a rise in the rural population. Urban areas actually lost residents through migration. The trend is a reverse of the long-time pattern of rural residents to urban areas. It also shows that cities have grown through annexation, taking in more area, rather than gaining population through more dense settlement within the former city boundaries.

Nonwhite population made up 10.6 percent of the total in 1960 compared with only 1.8 percent in 1900. The rapid growth of nonwhite population in recent years indicates a heavy migration from southern states since 1940.

Women outnumbered men in 1960, as they did in 1950. For every 100 white males, there were 97 white females. For every 100 nonwhite females, there were 93.4 nonwhite males. The increasing number of females is due to different death rates and the longer life expectancy of females.

The counties showing the most significant population gains, amounting to one-third or more of the 1950 population, were Kane, Kendall, Lake, McHenry, Will and Winnebago.

Counties showing the greatest population losses, amounting to one-fifth or more of the 1950 population, were Alexander, Gallatin, Hardin, Johnson, Pope, Pulaski and Saline.

Rural population declines were due to the smaller number of people living on farms. Where counties gained in rural population, it was due to rural nonfarm residents who live in the country and work in large centers.

"The sparse number of people and small size of many counties pose acute problems of planning and organization to meet the demands for schools, local government, roads, police and fire protection and other services. Perhaps the time is ripe for considering the needs for geographic and political reorganization of some of these units to maintain services from tax resources at an equitable cost. Many Illinois counties were created when local government was largely determined by horse-and-buggy transportation over unimproved roads," Folse concludes.

Frogs, toads, newts and salamanders are the most common amphibians. They represent an intermediate stage of development between fishes and reptiles.

Theodore D. Galas, an accountant with offices located at 16740 Oak Park ave., Tinley Park, has compiled from the many income tax returns he prepared last year, the average wage earned by a taxpayer in this and surrounding villages.

As taken from the returns filed at Galas's office, the average wages in the following villages are:

Palos Park -- $10,620.30;
Palos Heights -- 9,504.57;
Tinley Park -- 8,888.12;
Orland Park -- 8,555.40;
Worth -- 8,130.55;
Hazel Crest -- 8,015.35;
Country Club Hills -- 7,934.50;
Markham -- 7,813.81;
Oak Forest -- 7,713.02;
Mokena -- 7,437.28;
Blue Island -- 7,037.81;
Posen -- 6,819.73;
Frankfort -- 5,971.49.

JUST RIDING or so it would seem in this bout on the Lincoln-Way-Sandburg card last weekend. The fellow in the dark trunks is Terry Weber, of Lincoln-Way. He is wrestling Gibbons of Orland and when it was all over each contestant had four points.

CROSSBODY is this maneuver and a preliminary to the grapevine, which may or may not have been a forerunner of the twist. Anyway it is a better than fair hold and if Cliff Cheatwood (in the dark outfit) gets it on Rordiguez, of Sandburg, he could have him saying uncle. Cheatwood didn't pin his man but he racked up seven points against him without a return.

L W Grapplers Defeat Sandburg And Wilmington

Lincoln-Way wrestlers scored two team victories last weekend. They beat Carl Sandburg 24 to 18 in a well wrestled match for another SSW conference win and then went outside the league to knock over Wilmington 40 to 10.

In the go against Sandburg the Knights won six, tied two matches and lost four. Bob Edmondson pinned his man in the 127-lb match and Sandburg evened it up in the 154-lb. class in which Wilcoxen pinned Tom Gumbel.

Winners among the Knights were Tom Suchoski, Randy Reiter, Cliff Cheatwood, Edmondson, Mike Codini and Jim DeHart. Terry Weber and Ray Just tied their opponents, Co-Capt. Bill Delaney was out of the line-up with an injured knee.

Cheatwood the other co-captain, suffered a knee injury in the match against Sandburg so joined Delaney on the bench against Wilmington, thus leaving the team without an elected leader. Jim Walsh, filling in for Cheatwood at 120 pounds, won his match as did Todd Bennett in the 133-lb class. Bennett won his match with a pin. Others to win by pins were Terry Weber Tom Gumbel and Ken DeCamp.

Knights Lose To Eagles, Tame Plainfield Cats

By PAUL BROWN

The Knights split two games last weekend, losing to the Eagles of Carl Sandburg, 58-33; and then beating the Wildcats of Plainfield, 64-51.

The Eagles started off red hot as usual and led the Knights by a score of 18-4 at the close of the first period, and 35-10 at halftime.

High scorers for Sandburg were Lance Roberts with 21 points and Dan Waslick with 15. Top honors for the Knights went to Jerry Sayers with 8 and Joe Reinhard with 7.

Lincoln-Way had much more luck against Plainfield Saturday night. They jumped off to a 17-12 lead in the first quarter, and stretched it to a 33-21 bulge at halftime. They led by 15 points at the end of the third quarter, 45-30.

Ron Yunker took top honors for the Knights with an outstanding performance of 26 points plus a very fine defensive game. Dan Lajcin had 15 for the Knights and Jerry Sayers had 12.

High man for the Wildcats was Platt with 12.

In this game, the Knights continued their dominance of non-conference competition, extending their win streak to 6-0. Overall they are 8-6 and in conference they are 2-6.

The frosh-soph also split, first losing to Sandburg, 48-37, then beating the Wildcats, 42-29.

Friday the Knights play host to the Spartans of Oak Lawn in a conference game.

The maid of honor, Donna Koukas, of Joliet, wore a lavender satin, street length dress and carried a cascade of sterling silver roses with white snowdrift pom-poms.

David Bruns, brother of the bridegroom, served as best man. The ushers were, Olaf Arnheim, of Skarsdale, N.Y., and Morris Wade, of New Lenox.

Mrs. Hutchins, mother of the bride, wore a taupe silk crepe sheath dress and matching accessories. Her corsage was a gold cypridum orchid. The mother of the groom, Mrs. Bruns, wore a gold brocade, two-piece sheath dress with matching accessories, with her corsage an olive cypridum orchid.

Noted Figure In Art World Visits L-W

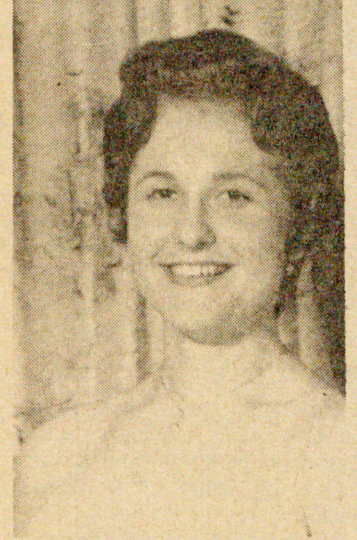

Rudy Seno, internationally famous artist, gave a demonstration lecture to the Lincoln-Way high school art department recently. Mr. Seno's works are much in evidence around Chicago. He has been responsible for much of the decor for the interior and exterior of the shopping plazas and new office buildings in our area.

Mr. Seno suggested that God creates all of the really basic forms in our world and thus the basic art forms. Kenneth Kinney, head of the Lincoln-

Way art department, stated that Mr. Seno's lecture aroused even the most disinterested people. Mr. Kinney further stated: "Mr. Seno's lecture gave the students an insight to the method and reason for his creations."

Mr. Seno's work runs the gamut of art creation from the realistic to the pure abstraction. He gave two lectures of one and one-half hour in length.

Fire Flies 4-H's Elect Delegates To Federation

By Elizabeth Anderson
The Homer Fire Flies 4-H Club met in Homer Church recreation rooms Saturday afternoon, Jan. 6. Their leader, Thomas Zander, gave a talk on Federation Delegates, and the group elected Cathy Zander, David Bier and Ron Baxa as delegates. Four new members joined the club, Jerry Paddock, Gail and Lee Fritz and Peggy Henderson.

Dale Oederisin talked on "The Oscillator." Refreshments were enjoyed.
All members were to participate in the Cerebral Palsy drive. The next meeting of the club will be held Feb. 3 at 2:30 p.m. at the church.

The Country Charms 4-H club met Friday evening, Jan. 19, in the Louis Brubaker home on Walnut Rd. in Creekside. Their leaders, Mrs. Galen Holloway and Mrs. G. E. Brown, attended the recent Honor Roll banquet in Peotone. The group is planning a Roller Skating party for April 16.

Among those who will assist in the Civil Defense program, planned at a recent meeting for the Homer-Lockport Unit, are these Homer men: Norman Pankow, Warren White, Stanley Gorecki and Bruce Dyer.

Harold M. Finley of Lockport, and well known in Homer Township, was guest speaker last Tuesday evening at a meeting of the Industrial Management Club of the Joliet area in the Joliet YMCA. His topic was, "Why Common Stocks?" Mr. Finley is currently assistant to the chairman of the Board of the H. M. Byllesby Investment Banking Co. of Chicago.

A miscellaneous pre-nuptial shower was held in Homer Church dining room Sunday afternoon in honor of Miss Bonnie Lucille Brands, daughter of the Roland Brands of Plainfield. Hostesses for the occasion were Mrs. L. O. Pierson of Lockport, Mrs. Walter Dudek of 159th St. and Mrs. Earl Burnworth of Bruce Rd. Refreshments were served by members of the Homer Missionary Society, of which Mrs. Burnworth is a member.

On Feb. 3, Miss Brands will become the bride of Larry L. Burnworth, son of the Earl Burnworths, at a 4:30 p. m. ceremony in St. John's Lutheran Church at Beecher, Ill. Friends and relatives are invited to attend the wedding and also the reception which will follow in the Beecher Community Hall.

The King's Daughters, Wayside Workers' Circle, will meet at Homer Church on Thursday, Feb. 1, if weather and roads are favorable. Dessert-coffee will be served at 1 o'clock. Followed by a business session and devotional period. "Talent money" should be turned in at this time. Also the Ways and Means committee has promised to report that day.

Youth Week will be observed at Homer Church on Jan. 28, when Rev. Cox will use for his sermon topic, "Growing Pains." Some of the young people will have a part in the morning service. Classes for young church members are being held each Saturday morning at the school building.

Mrs. Ralph Cagin completed her teacher's course at Joliet Junior College with the end of the current semester.

If the history of the past two weeks in Homer, as elsewhere, were written, it might be something like this: Car stalled -- get a shovel; school bus late -- frost bites; equipment broken down -- cold repair job; water-pipes frozen -- where's the plumber?; meeting postponed -- quiet home evening; car in ditch -- get a tractor; farmyard full of snow -- neighbors to the rescue; school and churchyard full -- here comes the snowplow; poor shopping weather -- empty pantries; flu and colds -- aspirin and cough syrup; late mail -- hard time for carriers; no school -- hooray; most popular man, night or day -- the Man On the Snowplow.

But there is some good news: So far as we know, in this Homer area, there have been no fatal accidents, no deaths, no lengthy power failure, and no bad fires.

C. G. Rowley left last week to visit his daughter and son-in-law, the Laverne Kaspers, in California, and he writes that the flowers are blooming in the garden. Lucky Clarence.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Rodgers and Miss Faye, and Mr. and Mrs. John White and Laurie were Friday evening dinner

Total crop production in 1961 was the second highest on record. While about 2 per cent below last year, production was 19 per cent above the 1947-49 average.

This large output was obtained from the smallest acreage harvested since records were begun in 1909. The 6 per cent reduction in acreage from last year was largely due to retirement of cropland under the Government's feed grain program though drought in the Northern Plains forced abandonment of other acreage in that area.

The explanation for the near-record harvest lies, of course, guests in the Stanley Cox home.

The Couples' Club of Homer Church went bowling in New Lenox last Friday evening, then returned to the Otto Moravec home for refreshments. The group is planning a Mother-Daughter banquet for Feb. 14.

in the very high yields per acre obtained during 1961. The index of crop yields was about 2 per cent above 1960 and 47 per cent above the 1947-49 average. Higher support prices and additional acreage restrictions on some crops stimulated farmers to seek higher yields, and favorable weather helped to make their efforts pay off.

New records have been set for crop yields each successive year since 1954 with the exception of 1959. In that year yields had been exceeded only in 1958. While favorable weather has been a contributing factor in achieving higher yields in some years, the major force has been improved technology. Greater use of fertilizer, development of new hybrids, adoption of better soil management practices, development of new insecticides and herbicides and further gains in mechanization have all played important roles.

A simple inexpensive attachment on the boot of a normal corn planter may pave the way for more efficient production by allowing corn plants to grow in the same direction. But at present this work called orienting corn, is strictly experimental, cautions a University of Illinois agronomist.

With about 28,000 people killed annually in home accidents in the United States, it is very important to build as much safety into your home as possible, says O. L. Hogsett, University of Illinois extension safety specialist.

Farming is big business. Agricultural economists at the University of Illinois say that the amount of capital required on the family-operated farms in the corn belt has increased more than 3 1/2 times in the past 20 years. Cash expenditures on these farms were four times as high in 1960 as in 1940.

A University of Illinois farm management specialist says that farmers should keep their farm business records for business planning, not just to use in preparing their income tax returns.

Chicago Automobile Show Scheduled For Feb. 17-25

The $25,000,000, 54th annual Chicago Automobile Show will transform vast, new McCormick Place into the world's largest automotive display area from Feb. 17 through 25. The nine days and nights of this colorful, exposition are expected to bring out attendance surpassing last year's record 789,734.

On all counts -- attendance, number and variety of exhibits, showmanship of presentation -- it is the world's greatest dealer-sponsored Show, held since 1935 under the sold auspices of the Chicago Automobile Trade Association. It has been presented more times than any other automobile Show in the world.

It is a unique annual chapter in the story of industrial expositions of any sort for its crowd appeal and its stature as a civic fixture have increased rather than diminished each year. There is little difference in numbers between the crowds on the opening Saturday and Sunday and those on the closing weekend. This consistent level of attendance is a source of amazement to most exposition officials who usually experience a downward curve in crowd totals after a big opening.

The upcoming renewal relies again on a success formula whose simple elements are these:

The irresistible appeal of the automobile to persons of all ages.

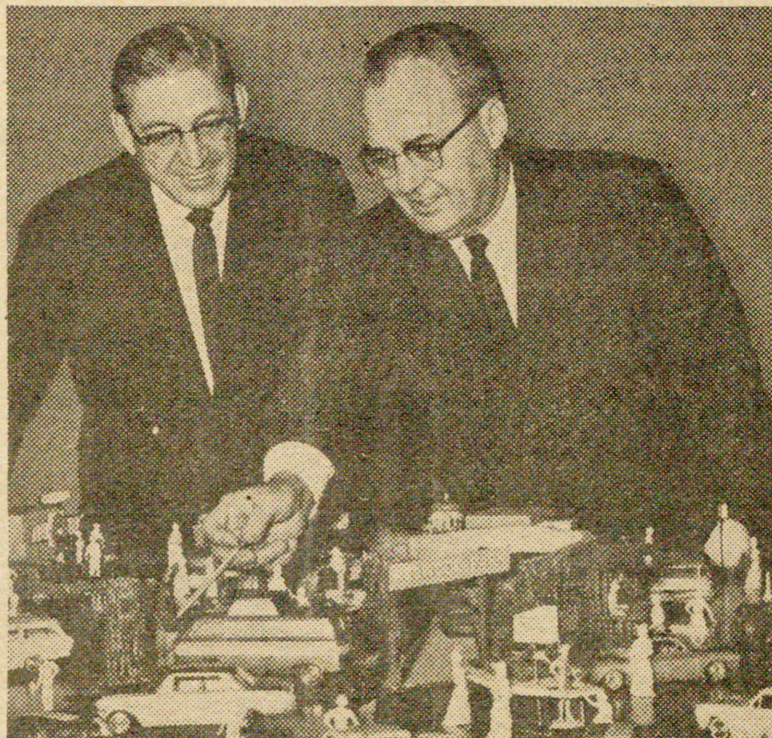

The first chance since late autumn new car introductions to examine and compare all models of all makes ranged side-by-side across a single, vast 300,000 square foot "showroom".

Heart of the 1962 event will be some 450 U. S. passenger cars and trucks and import cars as well as more than 50 accessories, equipment, parts and special automotive-related displays. It has no challengers as the most comprehensive automotive showing in the western hemisphere.

There is a twice-daily "Motorevue of 1962", a musical and variety hour on the stage of the 5,000-seat Arie Crown theater in McCormick Place. Even here, the theme that "The Car is The Star" is emphasized in a spectacular pageant of U.S. passenger cars.

Show hours will be 11 a.m. to 11 p.m. daily after the first Saturday, Feb. 17, when the public will be admitted from 1 p.m. to 11 p.m. A two-hour opening day telecast from WGN-TV will begin at 11 a.m.

Semon E. Knudsen (left), general manager of Chevrolet, examines a scale model of the company's 13,200-square-foot passenger car exhibit being prepared for the Chicago Auto Show as K. E. Staley, general sales manager, describes one of the displays. Thirteen of the newest Chevrolet, Chevy II and Corvair passenger cars will be on display, along with such special exhibits as a fashion show for the ladies, a 1912 Chevrolet to mark the company's 50th anniversary, movies, a wheel of fortune, a Greenbrier camping unit and animated mechanical displays of cars and engines.

These Cars Will Be On Display At Auto Show

DOMESTIC CARS--Buick, Buick Special, Cadillac, Checker, Chevrolet, Chevy II, Corvair, Corvette, Chrysler, Imperial, Plymouth, Valiant, Dodge, Lancer, Ford, Fairlane 500, Falcon, Thunderbird, Lincoln Continental, Mercury, Comet, Meteor, Oldsmobile, F-85, Pontiac, Tempest, Rambler, Ambassador, American, Studebaker Lark, Gran Turismo.

COMMERCIAL VEHICLES --- Chevrolet, Dodge, Ford International Harvester, Studebaker, Willys.

IMPORT CARS -- Alfa Romeo, Austin, Austin-Healey, Citroen, Commer, Daimler, DKW, English Ford, Ferrari, Fiat, Fiat-Abarth, Hillman, Humber, Jaguar, Mercedes Benz, Metropolitan, MG, Morris, Opel, Porsche, Renault, Rolls Royce, Simca, Singer, Sunbeam, Triumph, Vauxhall, Volkswagen, Volvo.

Rambler Classic, Mercury Meteor, Buick Station Wagon, Dodge Dart Chrysler Newport and Plymouth Savoy.

Ford Offers Four Lines For 1962

Ford Motor Company dealers offer four lines of car for 1962, Falcon, Fairlane, Galaxie and Thunderbird.

There are 13 models of the compact Falcon running from two and four door sedans up to station wagons. The Fairlane 500 is the deluxe, full-sized leader of the Ford line. It is offered in a total of four models including two and four door sedans.

There are seven Galaxies to choose from this year ranging from the Country Squire wagon to the two and four door sedans.

Thunderbird offers four models this year, the brand-new Landau, the standard sports roadster, the convertible and the hardtop.

Engineering improvements on Ford cars include the following: on Thunderbird the swing away wheel is standard equipment; on Galaxies, brakes adjust themselves for the life of the linings, '62 Fords go 30,000 miles between lubrications and 6,000 miles between oil changes. Fords now have more room for head, shoulders

T-Bird Adds Stylish New Landau Model

The Ford Thunderbird for 1962 retains its traditional classic styling, incorporates more than 100 engineering improvements, and offers two special new models: a two-seat sports roadster and a vinyl-covered hardtop Landau model.

Combined with the regular hardtop and convertible, the two new models increase the luxury car line to four models -- the widest selection of Thunderbirds since the car's introduction in 1955.

The new sports roadster features a molded fiberglass tonneau cover with padded head rest which transforms the four-seat convertible into a two-seat car. Wire wheels are a special feature of the new roadster.

The new Thunderbird Landau model has a vinyl-covered roof available in black or white colors. The new model has a traditional landau "S" - bar, in shining chrome, on the sides of the roof quarter panel.

Thunderbird again has individual bucket seats in front, divided by an attractive and useful console, and simulated bucket type rear seats. The unique swing-away steering wheel, which has been ordered by nearly 77 per cent of Thunderbird buyers since it was available on the 1961 model, is standard equipment for 1962.

Engineering improvements under the hood and body of the new Thunderbird give it better riding characteristics than any previous Thunderbird. Its short-stroke, low-friction, 390-cubic-inch engine has an advanced induction system. A new, 30,000-mile disposable fuel filter keeps water and foreign particles from entering the engine and its four-barrel carburetor incorporates some 15 improvements over 1961.

The Thunderbird offers a wide range of standard equipment that is optional on most other cars, including the 390-cubic-inch engine, dual range automatic transmission, power steering, power brakes and electric windshield wipers, among others.

hips and legs. Engines range from 170 hp to 300 hp (V-8) and two of these use regular gas. Ford wagons provide 93 1/2 cubic feet of storage space. Fairlanes offer comforts for six passengers with a 29 cu. ft. trunk, insulated body and special vibration free ride. Falcon features a low price tag and top gas mileage.

Ladies Take The Wheel In Auto World

Women are amazing, and unpredictable, and curious and ponderous, and probably the most influential automobile marketing factor to come along since the wheel.

Experts -- if there are such things when it comes to women and their thinking -- contend that the ladies and the automobile industry are as closely connected as the front axle and the steering wheel -- power steering, that is.

If fuchsia polka dot settees are big with the ladies, you're likely to find them in the front seat of your new Smaltz V-16. Nearly 40 per cent of the nation's drivers are women; seven per cent of the auto factory workers are women and there are now automobile salesladies and dealership owners, automotive engineers, stylists, artists and fabric experts; taxi, bus and truck drivers; newspaper, trade publication and auto magazine editors -- in addition to hundreds of secretaries, models, typists and clerks.

And the ones that aren't influencing automobile design in these areas are collaring harried husbands to plead the case for fuchsia polka dot upholstery, power assists, washable interior materials, brighter colors and vanity mirrors.

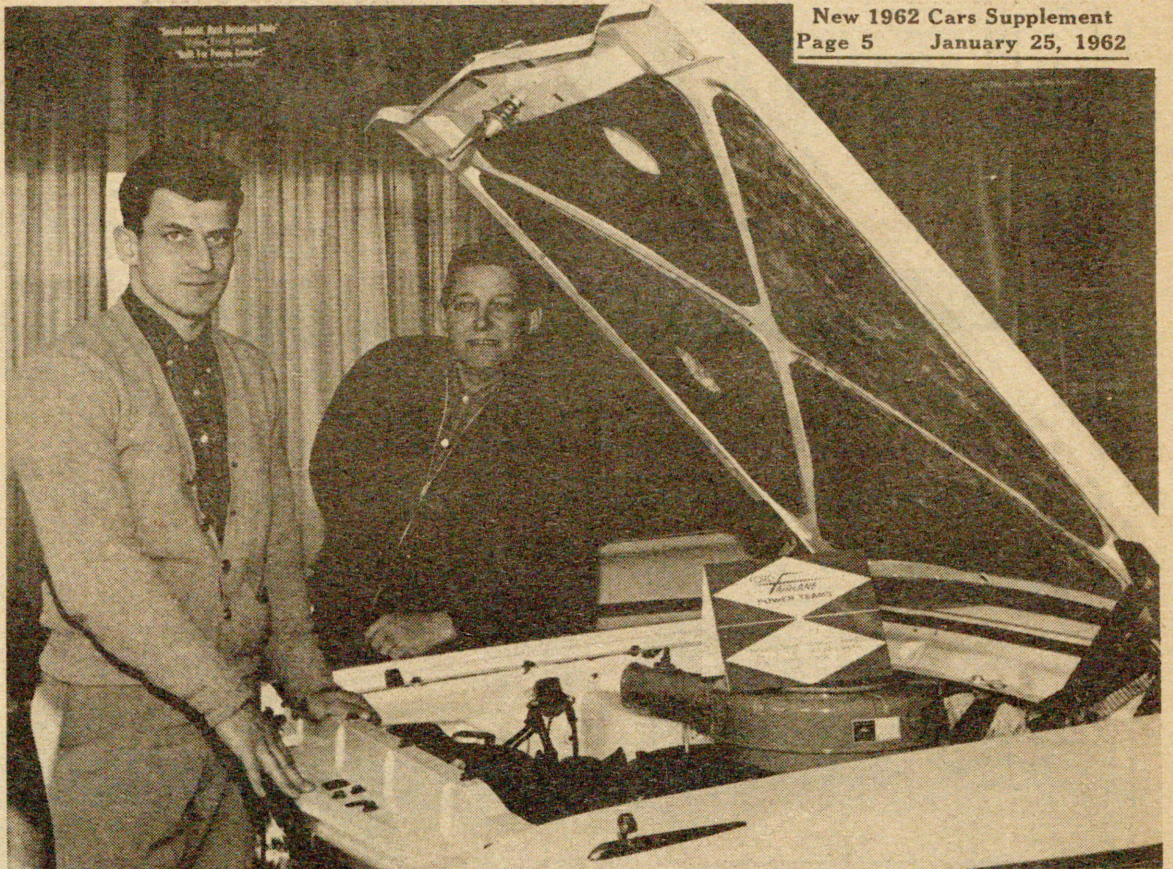

Women are even putting words into the mouths of their men -- which, of course, is not alone peculiar to the automobile industry. Advertising copy is resplendent with such words as "stylish", "functional", "fashionable", "lines", "sweep", "decor", and "sleek."

And in trucks it's difficult to imagine a burly truck driver being interested in the fact that a new pickup has a low, wide "silhouette" with "clean lines" that "flow smoothly" from front to rear.

But you better believe that his wife, who may have to drive this "Tennessee Hardtop" to the supermarket, and the woman who drives it for a business firm are interested in "lines" and "quietness" and "a better ride" and "more headroom" and "handsome" instrument panels and "comfort, convenience and ease of handling."

However, as in all discussions with or about "the weaker sex," you ultimately admit there is some merit in their point of view. And lining up in their favor are such things as air conditioning, heaters, radios, assist straps, glove compartments, safety belts, carpeting, arm rests, dual ashtrays and interior lighting.

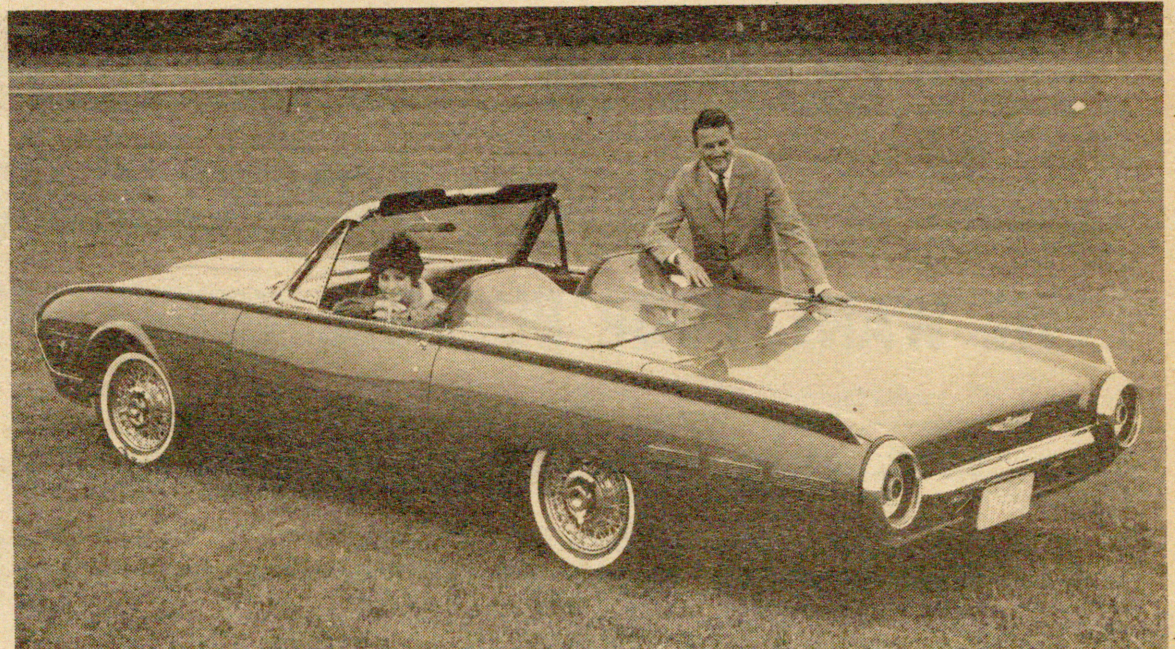

And to bolster their argument, women folk have had a strong influence in bringing about automatic transmissions -- power assists in steering, brakes, windows and seat adjusting; window washers, turn signals and pull-type door handles.

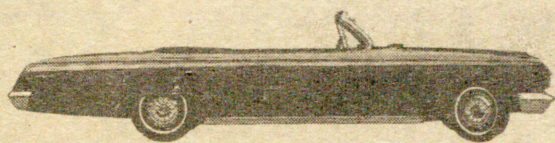

POWER TO SPARE--Jim Vanek and George Hardan look over the power plant of a new 1962 Fairlane 500 in the showroom of the Cooper-Show Ford Agency in Frankfort. Both of these gentlemen are ready to explain the wide variety of engines available to their customers in a new 1962 Ford. Golden Triangle Photo

READY TO GO--Harold Cooper of Cooper and Hostert Garage in Mokena has a cigar all lit and is ready to go anywhere in this new 1962 Ford Falcon. He'll be glad to show you how beautifully it performs. Golden Triangle Photo

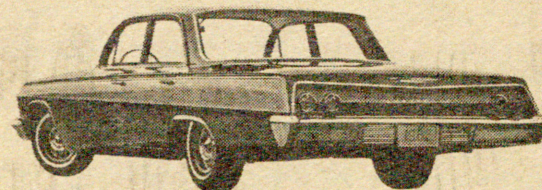

CONVERTIBLE CONVERTIBLE -- This special sports roadster that has been added to the Thunderbird line for 1962. The new roadster is easily transformed from a four-passenger car to a sporty two-seater by placing a tonneau cover over the entire rear portion of the passenger compartment. Along with a new Landau hardtop model and the standard hardtop and convertible models, the roadster increases to four the number of Thunderbirds offered for 1962. The new model's special features include head rests, spoke wheels and an assist bar for passenger convenience.

STING RAY CORVETTE -- This car is the Chicago Auto Show version of the famous Sting Ray Corvette, a racing sports car capable of speeds up to and over 160 mph. This and a number of other exotic show cars will be displayed at the 54th Chicago Auto Show from Feb. 17 thru 25.

Dodge Features Three Lines Of '62 Autos

Three separate lines of 1962 Dodge cars will be exhibited at the Chicago Auto Show and at your Dodge dealers.

On display will be Dodge's compact Lancer line, including the sleek, new Gran Turismo sports hardtop; the completely redesigned full-size Dart; and the new high-style, high-performance Polara 500.

Prior to the 1960 model year, Dodge marketed only medium-price cars. But in 1960, the company invaded the low-price market with its popular standard-size Dart. In 1961 it moved into the compact car field with its economical Lancer. And for 1962, it has put its elegant new Polara 500 in the luxury sports car market.

Dodge has also completely redesigned the Dart for 1962, giving it all-new styling and significant increases in performance, economy and ease of handling.

The Lancer Gran Turismo and Polara 500 convertible and two-door hardtop have bucket seats.

The Dart is available in 23 models in three series: the low-price Dart series, the middle-line Dart 330 and the deluxe Dart 440. Included are four 2-door sedans, six 4-door sedans, four 2-door hardtops, a 4-door hardtop, a convertible, five 6-passenger station wagons and two 9-passenger wagons.

15 EXTERIOR COLORS

There are 15 exterior colors for the Dart and 33 different two-tone combinations.

The Lancer is offered in seven models: 2- and 4-door sedans and a 4-door station wagon in both the low-price "170" series and the deluxe "770" series, and a 2-door hardtop in the Gran Turismo series.

The Polara 500 is available in convertible, 2-door and 4-door hardtop models and 12 unique two-tone color combination.

The three Dodge lines provide a choice of six different engines. Four are available to Dart buyers. Standard on the Dart are a 230-horsepower V-8 and a 145-horsepower Slant Six, both of which operate efficiently and economically on regular grades of gasoline. Two high-performance V-8's are optional: one with 260 horsepower and the other with 305. Both engines have four-barrel carburetors and dual exhausts.

The 305-horsepower V-8, with special camshaft, is standard on the Polara 500.

Two highly economical 6-cylinder engines are offered in the Lancer line: one with 101 horsepower and the other with 145. The 145 horsepower engine has a lightweight aluminum cylinder block.

Chevrolet Offers Wide Range In Four Lines

Chevrolet Motor Division of General Motors offers four primary lines of motor car for the 1962 season, Chevrolet, Chevy II, Corvair and Corvette, all of which will be on display at the Chicago Automobile Show.

Most elegant car in the Chevrolet line is the Impala, with six models in all. Bel Air and Biscayne each offer two and four door sedans and the station wagon. Chevy II has three lines, the Nova 400 in sport coupe, station wagon and convertible, the Chevy II 300 in 4 door sedan, 2 door sedan and 3 seat station wagon and the Chevy II 100 in the same choices.

Chevy II is the newest model in the Chevrolet line and features a choice of the 90 hp or 120 hp engine with either three speed synchro mest or powerglide transmission. It is available in dozens of color combinations and offers all types of custom features and power assists.

The economy Corvair line leads off with the Monza then the Corvair 700, 500 and Station wagon series and features the unique Greenbriar sports wagon.

Most unique and sporty of Chevrolet automobiles is the Corvette, America's only true production sports car, proven in thousands of races across the world as one of the finest sports cars ever made. Corvettes are available with engine volumes from 250 cu. in. to the fuel injection 360 and features a wide choice of transmissions.

Say Rambler Has Longest Car Life Span

The 1962 Rambler will have a longer life span than any volume car yet produced, American Motors believes.

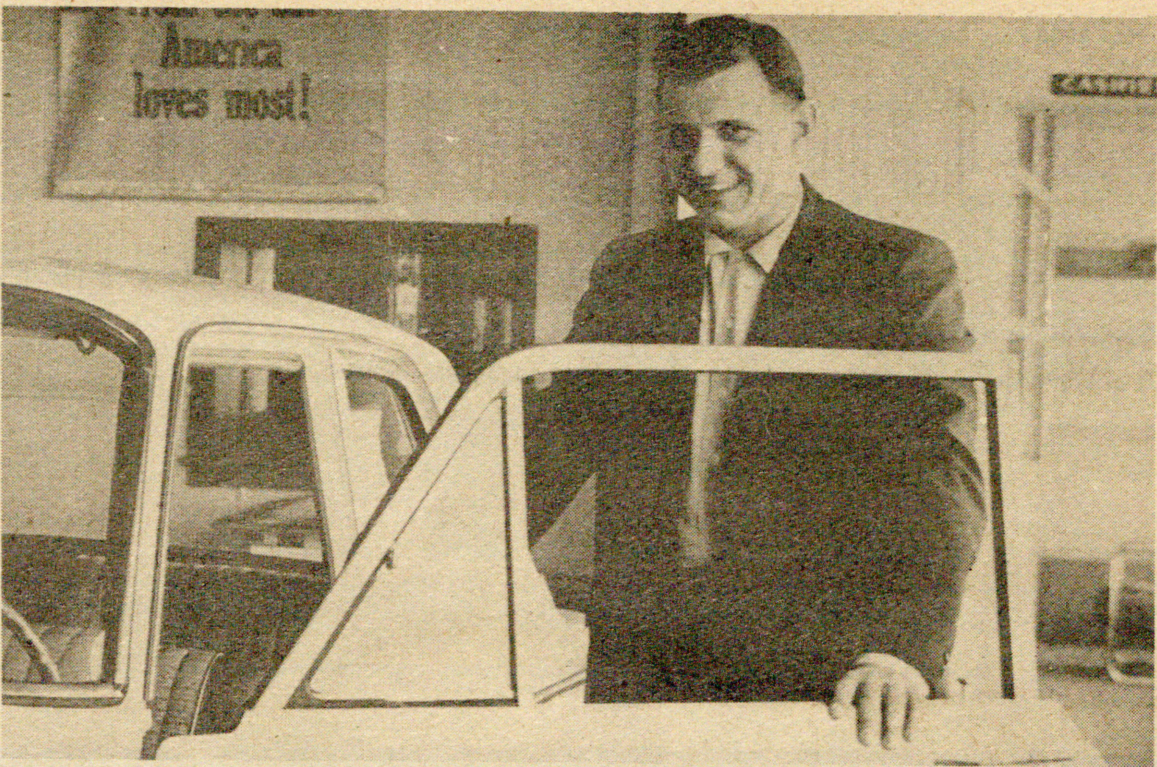

The evaluation is based on the cumulative degree of durability achieved by Rambler's "Deep-Dip" rust-preventing primer process, galvanized rocker panels and side sills, lifetime-guaranteed ceramic-coated muffler and tailpipe, self-adjusting Double-Safety brakes with bonded linings, and greatly reduced chassis lubrication and oil change requirements and other long-life features.

Added to this is the company's increased emphasis on product quality. Under its new "A-OK Customer Quality Assurance Program," employees are pledged to maintain high work standards and quality control in all phases of Rambler manufacturing and production.

The 1962 Ramblers already are coming off the line with better quality than at the close of 1961 production, the company says, which is an unheard-of feat in the automobile industry at the beginning of a new model year.

There are 800 items checked on each new Rambler, compared with only 277 on the industry's highest-priced car.

YOU'RE WELCOME -- Bob Callan will make you welcome at D & M Motors in Lemont where you can see the complete Ford line for '62. Bob is all set to take this Fairlane 500 for a spin and he invites you to take it out and try it too.

Buick Has Five Major '62 Models

Buick's 1962 line of regular-size cars -- the LeSabre, Invicta and Electra series -- features a completely new design with sporty new roof styles and long sweeping lines.

In the Special series there is a revolutionary 90-degree V-6 engine, the only V-8 in any U. S. car.

The styling of the Buick Skylark, the luxury model in the small car line, has been extended to the entire Special line for 1962.

For the first time Buick, which pioneered the hardtop styling 12 years ago, is offering a two-door hardtop that looks like a regular convertible. These models are available in the Invicta and LeSabre series.

A distinctive new roofline, with wide, sloping rear pillars, distinguishes the two-door and four-door hardtops in the new Electra 225 series.

Interiors in the regular line have been completely restyled, fashioned in the latest luxury fabrics in nylon, leather and vinyl. The instrument panel also is of new design, with an instrument cluster designed around a new needle-type speedometer.

NO HUMP

Engineering changes in the regular line are highlighted by the almost complete elimination of the transmission hump in the floor of the front passenger compartment. This restores adequate leg-room for the middle passenger in the front seat. It was accomplished by widening the frame in front and moving the engine forward four inches.

Every model in the 1962 Buick line is equipped with heater and defroster as standard and all push-button radios will be transistorized.

The biggest engineering news about the new Buick is the introduction of the V-6 engine, the only V-6 offered by an American manufacturer.

All standard Special series models are equipped with the V-6 engine, with the high performance aluminum V-8, introduced last year, available as an option. The aluminum V-8 is standard on deluxe models in the Special series.

The aluminum V-8 has been improved for 1962 and is offered in a high-performance option with four-barrel carburetor and 11-to-1 compression ratio. This high performance power plant is standard on the 1962 Skylark, which has been restyled into a hardtop model.

The new V-6 has performance characteristics of a V-8, yet it is from 140 to 179 pounds lighter than in-line sixes of comparable power output. Performance-wise it is 22 to 24 per cent better than comparable in-line sixes

New 1962 Cars Supplement

in the 0 to 60 MPH range.

The V-6 offers the customer the advantages of lower initial cost, lower operating costs through more miles per gallon of fuel, low maintenance expense, and premium performance from a six-cylinder engine.

Another innovation of the Special series for 1962 is a four-speed floor-mounted sports car transmission, which is available as an option. This innovation, coupled with the high-performance aluminum V-8 engine, greatly improves the performance characteristics of the Special.
